From the Cocionate Enquirer.

North Manchester, Ind., June 17.—At 1 o'clock this morning W. T. Green, of the firm of Green & Vanbuskirk, of hamsville, a little scatton three miles west of here, on the Eel River Road, was awakened from his sleep by some one cutting at the west window of the storeroom in which he was sleeping. He quietly reached for his revolver and held himself in readiness. The thief soon raised the window sash and crawled about half way through, when he heistated and jumped out again. Mr. Green then took a kneeling position and held a steady aim on the open window. Soon the thief put in an appearance and again peered into the room. He must have suspected that some one was inside, for he called to his partner, saying if the se of a b—was inside they would make short work of him. At this point Green fired, and the thief rolled out of the window dead, and his partner, who was on the outside, made his escape. The ball entered his skuil, and he died without a struggle.

The River and Harbor bill appropriates over $5,000,000. There was no bill last year. The Lexislative, Executive, and Judicial bill approximately amounts to $16,200,000. Last year it was $15,756,774.05. The Post Office bill this year amounts to about $4,000,000 actually appropriated for the benefit of the Home for the state the executors to pay $30,000 to each of his children propriated to be paid due to the payment of its expenses. These amount to about $30,000,000. Last year the amount appropriated to be paid from the Treasury was $2,939,725. Corporal Matthews, with four Texan Rangers, followed the trail of the assassins to El Paso, and learned that they had crossed over to Mexico. The wounded men were taken back to El-Paso, Texas, and Johnton died the following evening. Lieut Butler returned to Mesilia on Saturday, four days after. In the mean time an expedition, under the direction of the army officers at El Paso, was formed, and on Thursday night the assassins were captured. The prisoners were recognized as "Bob" Martin, a noted bandit, and "Ned" Jones, alias "Curley."

On the morning of the attack upon Lieut. Butler, the stage coach between Silver City and Mesilla was stopped near Cook's Cafon by a burly fellow on horseback, who, galloping out of the woods, cried out to "Sam" Eckstine, the levelling a carbine at the driver's head. There were three passengers in the coach, Col. Willard, United States army, Lieut. West from Arizona, and Mr. Hathaway, a travelling agent. The desperado demanded the express box, and Eckstine answered:

"I ain't got any."

"Then heave out your mail bag." the fellow returned, at the same time keeping his carbine well aimed at the passengers, who did not move. The mail bag was thrown out, and then the robber requested the passengers to hand out their small chance." They complied readily, Col. Willard and Lieut. West making up about $26, Mr. Hathaway fingered a small package he had in his vest pocket, and the fellow asked what it was.

"Only ten cents." Hathaway replied.

"Then been it: I don't want to rob you; you may want it to get something to eat."

The robber then bade Eckstine drive on, and covered the coach for about twenty yards with his carbine.

AN INTERESTING JUDICIAL DECISION. Patentee's Right Confirmed.

From the Chicago Times.

St. Paul., Minn., June 20.—Judge Nelson, in the United States District Court here, rendered a decision to-day in the suit of William B. Andrews, George H. Andrews, and Nelson Green art. George B. Wright, to recover damages for an infinitenent of the patent upon drive-weils, and for an infinitenent of the patent upon drive-weils, and for an infinitenent of a royalty.

The grounds of decience were as follows: First, the relisance was obtained by fraud, and not for the same invention as the original, second, want of novelty, prior disconding the condition of the patent of the Ex-Chairman Moses A. Wheelock's Family to be Provided for by the Brokers.

Justice Pinckney's Court. ance fund. Mr. Wheelock's friends therefore determined to raise $10,000 by private subscription for his family. Two pupers were put in circulation, one being for $100, and the other for $50 contributions. The funeral services are to be performed to-day at 36 East Twenty-third street. Mr. Wheelock and family were for several verse. ceived from the Hon Walter S. Pinckney, the present Justice of the district, a letter announcing the appoint-ment of ex-Alderman Thomas Duffy to the position that low Weed said yesterday that he was a journeyman printer in 1815 on the Albany Argus with Mr. Wilhams, "Mr. Williams," continued the venerable journalist, "was a good workman, industrious, temperate, and, what is too rare among printers now, as it was then, he was saving." Firty years ago Mr. Williams removed to Ulster county, and was long Postmaster of Rondout. He was an intimate friend of Mr. Weed, and although they rarely met each other, they, since 1815, kept up a triendly correspondence. He was an enthusiast in the business. When it was proposed in 1873 that each printer in the State should do a set amount of composing at the case as a contribution to a monument for Horace treeley's tomb in Greenwood Cemelery, Mr. Wilhams put on an apron are denied to work, completing the full amount stipulated.

HAYES AND SHERMAN GUILTY. An English Opinion of the Hayes Administra-

cans. A ruler may stop on the safe side of impeachment and yet be guilty of acts by which he justly forfeits the confidence of the governed. When President Hayes was raised to the supreme authority by the decision of the Electoral Commission, the majority of the American people were probably convinced that a wrong had been done, but they were unwilling to believe that the President was in any way a party to it. But if the evidence taken within the past fortnight before the Committee of Inquiry be not a mass of malignant perjury, it appears that the men whom the President selected to fill the highest offices in the State were directly implicated in the corrupt transactions by which the votes of Louisiana and Florida were taken away from Mr. Tilden.

Unless Secretary Sherman and Senator Mat-thews, and the American Ministers at Paris, Vienna, and St. Petersburg are able to prove that they are the victims of a conspiracy, it must be acknowledged that the purification of politics of which the Hayes Administration boasted has made little progress by comparison even with the worst period of Gen. Grant's rule. If it be suggested that the President was ignorant of the part which his friends played in the counting of the votes in Louisiana and Fiorida, the answer will be that there are limits to ted, was justified in believing that his friends—Mr. Sherman, Mr. Matthews, and the rest—did nothing during their visit to the South that was inconsistent with the strictest honor. But he can scarcely have been ignorant of the repute in which the local Republican agents and the members of the Returning Boards were held, or of the popular impression that those persons had deprived Mr. Tilden of his majority by fraud. Yet Mr. Hayes, while professing the warmest zeal for civil service reform, went out of his way to offer high and lucrative offices to men who, when they now appear to testify against the Republican cause, are denounced

Mr. Bryant's Index Expurgatorius for the Guidance of Writers.

Pross the Brooklyn Engle.

The Index Expurgatorius is another element in the interpretation of Mr. Bryant's idea of journalism—a comfortable, a sort of lying "down to pleasant dreams." In itself it is good, and it contains matter profitable for reflection. No writer will suffer if he agent of reflection.

There is a great deal of excitement in the southwestern portion of Mahoning county. Ohto, occasioned by the authorities having decided upon the arrest of the Rev. Mr. Potter, late of Limaville, Stark county, a United Brethren preacher, on the charge of murdering Williamson Carter, his wife's uncle, near Atwater Station, about three weeks ago. The Rev. Mr. Potter had not lived happily with his family, and while he was at Conference recently his wife left him, and her uncle, the man murdered, to move her to Alliance. Shortly after Potter got back from Conference he persuaded his wife to rejoin him, and the family prepared to emigrate to Kansas. She left about four weeks ago, he remaining to settle up some business. A week later William Carter was found dead near Atwater Station. He had started to walk home from Alliance on the railroad track. The affair has been kept a secret up to within a six rt time in order to enable the authorities to work up the case. Suspicion fell upon Potter in consequence of threats that he had made about the time that he returned from Conference and found that his wife had left him. Evidence goes to show that Potter was in the vicinity at the time of the murder, and a hat which an Alliance man sold to Potter was found near the murdered man. Another fact against him is that he disappeared immediately after the murder. He followed his wife to Kansas. William Carter was the brother of the Rev. Charles Carter, known all over the Reserve. He was struck with a heavy werench that crushed his skull, and he must have died suddenly.

"It's a shame to have a club put in the hands of a coward like you," Justice Murray said to Officer Schmidt of the Twentieth street police, on Sunday, when he took to the bar Peter Fitzpatrick, who had been arrested for drunkenness.

he did strike me, "the omicer sam, be a mark.
"What did you strike the officer for?" the Justice asked of the prisoner, whose head was ornamented with patches, one eye being nearly closed.
"I was a little tast, I suppose, sir, and I tried to defend myself when he hit me."
"You are discharged."
